

About Angi Love

Angi has been teaching trauma informed movement since 2016. Her classes are about embracing all body types and finding the balance of ease and strength (whether it's physical, emotional or spiritual). She combines her love of craniosacral into her classes, bringing in awareness of the nervous system and the cranial bones to have more self regulation.